I'll be back in Miami on Monday.
Later I will need your input on new topics.
A current issue WILL happen indeed, volatility got in their way.

I'm coming back next week.

I just read that Gartman predicts that CAD and Euro will reach parity.

That guy is crazy!

If it did, Canada's economy would not export anything but commodities; and the German industry would become the most powerful one in the world.

Cross is now at 1,36.

It would only be viable if Germany ditched the Euro [and] took on the DM.

But why would they do that, being the developed economy that grew the most within the last 6 months? Simply because of a weak Euro?

Regards,

Igor

Waldyr,

My last email didn't go through or it was cut off. My internet time expires every 24 hours and it had just expired when I asked you about the sandwich deal, whether it is going to happen?

Edvino's owner is my brother's brother-in-law.

Regards,

Igor.
